“ I was saddened to learn of Elma's passing. She will always be remembered for her kind, gentle, and loving spirit. Elma was a priceless gift to her friends, colleagues, and the generation of students that she loved and guided so well. May all who loved Elma find peace and comfort in her legacy of compassion...and be blessed with joyful memories.

“ Elma was a gentle soul who successfully tried her best to be a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother, friend and teacher. Elma's face would light up when she heard that George was coming for lunch or with any news of her grandchildren. The thing that I will miss are her incredible stories. My favorite one is when George put the Christmas tree outside in a bucket. Well it was December so the water froze. George worked all day with a blow dryer to defrost the tree before Elma came home. I will always think of you Elma and smile. Thanks for all you did to make this world a better place. Peace.

“ Elma was such a dear friend. We went to Beaver College together, she drove me to our student teaching elementary school, we worked summer jobs together and she was my beautiful Maid of Honor. She was truly a person who would drop anything if you needed her and actually didn't just say that, but did it for her family and her friends. She was the most loving daughter I ever met, the most devoted wife and mother anyone could have...and as a Grandmother she was over the moon in love with each and every grandson and granddaughter. I am so grateful that we had a chance to reconnect after we retired, but I am so sad that we don't have more time to talk to each other as only very old friends are able to do. I will try to carry with me, forever, her spirit, and pass along her incredible compassion in my own life. I will miss that twinkle in the eye that she got whenever we were being naughty or even just thinking about it. I hope we can all keep these memories and her smiles in our hearts as we try to manage without her presence.

Much Love,

“ Elma and I were homeroom moms together at Wallingford Elementary School. I remember hosting holiday parties with her, and she was always prepared in a way that made all students feel included. We worked together later at the Kids" Place, which was the kindergarten center. She was such an amazingly calming influence in the computer room with children who didn't all understand how they were used. We were members of church together, through good times and bad, but still kept in touch. She had recently consoled me that I might never be able to retire, and shared her love with Disney World with me, who has never been and has no desire to go. I am finding it hard to believe I will never hear her dear, sweet, calming voice again, and send all my love, hugs, prayers and light to George, her daughters, and grandchildren.

“ I am so very sorry for your loss. Elma was a loving, gentle soul whose friendship I enjoyed when we world together as per diems for Great Source. She had the most wonderful subdued giggle, full of innocence and child-like joy—just like her.

“ Elma inspired me with her dedication to our students. She made a difference in so many lives and I was honored to be her colleague. I will treasure the memories of working with her, sharing grandchildren stories, visiting in Ocean City. Even in her untimely death she reminds me of how much she made the world a better place . God Bless you Elma. A life well lived.

Sincerely,

“ Elma, you were a true humanitarian, always putting others first. I enjoyed working with you at Swarthmore-Rutledge School before you retired. You were always about what was best for kids. I know that heaven's doors burst wide open to welcome you. God bless you!
